

MISS STINSON'S FLIGHTS FEATURE OF STATE FAIR

Twenty-Year-Old Girl Aviator to Make Two Ascensions Each Day in Biplane.

ENORMOUS POULTRY EXHIBIT

Fully 6,000 Birds to Be Shown by Virginia Poultry Farmers, While Many More Will Come From Outside of the State.

The eleventh annual exhibition of the Virginia State Fair Association, featuring agricultural, horticultural, live stock and varied other diversions of State industry, will open three weeks from to-morrow morning, October 6, and continue through to midnight of Saturday, October 14. During the week of the big State Fair, which will be held at the grounds on the outskirts of this city, 6,000 birds will be paid out in premiums, while the free attractions staged on two immense platforms in front of the amphitheater will cost $25,000.

The free attractions for the State Fair include Miss Katherine Stinson, the twelve-year-old aviator, who will make flights in the airplane day and night; the state-of-the-day feature, "The Flight of Constantinople," which will close each night's entertainment.

Additional interest has been created in the poultry exhibits by the special prize of $12,000 offered by the railroads operating in this state. The board of directors has decided to offer this prize in two classes. To the county which now employs a county farm agent, making the best display, will be awarded $3,000, and to the county not now employing a county farm agent, which makes the best display, the other $3,000 will be awarded, with a proviso that the money will be expended in the employment of a county farm agent. In this means, the railroads hope to encourage the county agents work throughout the State. This special prize was offered at the suggestion of President Fairfax Harrison, who is also president of the Southern Railway, and it was through his efforts that the railroads co-operated in the movement.

EXPECT MORE THAN 22,000

HOURS AT POULTRY SHOW

Contrasted with the small exhibits made by Kentucky and Tennessee during the past week, the display at the Virginia State Fair in October is going to be a "whopper." The Kentucky papers praised the exhibition at its fair held in Louisville, at which 1,000 birds were shown. The exorbitancy of the Virginia State Fair poultry show can be judged best from the fact that the exhibitors in the Virginia poultry Association, who this year are co-operating with the State Fair, will show more than 6,000 birds, while exhibitors from other States will bring the grand total to more than 12,000.

The main poultry building will be used exclusively by the Virginia exhibitors, while the foreign exhibitors will show their fowl and game birds, adding to the main building.

Forty silver cups will be awarded, and other trophies and cash prizes will be offered. One of the features of the poultry show will be an egg exhibit, wherein every kind and color and size of egg produced by the poultry and water fowl of Virginia will be displayed.

Featuring all the free shows will be the aerial flights of Miss Stinson. Her flights at night will be marked by a display of brilliant fireworks, making her stunts visible to all spectators.

DIVING HORSE AND DOG

DOG TO BE SEEN

The diving horse and dog, which were prevented from appearing last year because of an accident to the horse, will be the star free attraction this year. The act of the diving horse and dog is a wonderful demonstration of animal intelligence.

Other free attractions include:

The Tannenbaum van Dilemans, aerialists, who do hazardous stunts.

"The Six Water Lilies," including Miss Elma Neier, the "most perfectly formed woman in the world." These water nymphs will do diving tricks.

Other attractions assisted by Jack Moore. The exquisite wardrobe of this troupe is one of its features.

Aller's polar bears will be on hand to amuse the children and the old folks as well.

"The Four Danubians" will do somersaults, including the double-twisting somersault and a complete triple.

Miss Le Belle and Burleson Hurst, automobile stunts, featuring the long-distance and leaping-the-gap acts.

Other attractions are being signed up daily. The shows on the Midway will be high-class and every effort is being made to secure only clean features. Everything points to one continuous week—day and night—of mirth and merriment for the patrons of Virginia's big fair.

All shows and free attractions will conclude at 11 o'clock Saturday, the final day being given over to automobile races and demonstrations. The features of the final day are told in another article elsewhere in this paper.

BOWLES APOLOGIZES

FIREMAN IS THEN RELEASED OF CHARGE OF INTERFERING WITH POLICEMAN IN DISCHARGE OF DUTY.

He Bowles, a member of the Richmond Fire Department, was required to apologize to Patrolman R. W. Allen in Police Court, Part II, yesterday, when arraigned on the charge of interfering with an officer in the discharge of his duties. Bowles is said to have remonstrated with Allen Friday night when the latter was forced to use his club on a negro, Solomon Kirby, to protect a fellow-officer.

Patrolman Allen had been sent along with a wagon for the patrol wagon at the corner of Sixteenth and Hull Streets. Kirby is said to have tried to cause trouble. He later drew a knife and made a lunge at Patrolman Dunn who saw it just in time to save himself. Allen came to his rescue, knocking down the negro. It was then that Bowles is said to have remarked that it "was no use to hit the man any more." The negro man was fined $25 and costs and placed under a bond of $250.

Picnic Committee Places its Order

IMMENSE STORES BEING LAID IN FOR MAMMOTH BRUNSWICK STEW AT POLICE PICNIC.

Plans for the police picnic, which is to be given at the State Fair grounds on Saturday, are rapidly being completed by the committee in charge of the arrangements and reports from the squads of officers who are selling tickets indicate that the attendance will be one of the largest in years.

Police Sergeants Zimmer, Johnson and Whithack are in general charge of the details and are being assisted by Policemen Holt, Akers, Tomlinson, Gandy, Parker, Cole, Campion and a number of others. Large quantities of vegetables for the Brunswick stew and larger quantities of ingredients for other items on the menu have been carefully ordered by the committee.

Among the items in the order are noted:

Three hundred pounds chicken, half a young ox, 225 dozen ears of corn, 250 quarts of butterbeans, forty-eight gallons of turnips, three and one-half bushels of fresh carrots, one barrel of onions, a side of bacon, twelve gallons of asparagus tips, twelve gallons of green peas, two bushels of parsley, one bushel of thyme, one bushel of carrots, one bushel of okra, two bushels of green peppers.
